at 215 West Tenth Friday about noon. The landlady, Mrs. Susan Mott, entered his room at 11 o'clock and was surprised to find him still in bed. He was usually an early riser but she noticed that he was breathing regularly and immediately left the room. After waiting an hour for him to awaken, she began to fear that all was not right. She sent for S. W. Spangler, constable at Justice Hawthorne's court, who she knew was be made in the criminal court to-morrow, acquainted with Soule, and had him go to the room. Two menths ago Soule was taken to Central police station suffering from delirium tremens. He was first removed to the German hospital, but was later sent to the city hospital. He was very violent at times and had strong symptoms of insanity. After leaving the hospital he went to see Dr. Beattie, who had been his family physician ten years ago. He told Dr. Beattie that one of his friends had tried to have him take the Keeley cure, but that he knew he could stop drinking if he could get rid of his "worry." STOCKHOLDERS SUED.

STOCKHOLDERS SUED.

Actions Begun Against Holders of Missouri National Stock Who Ignored Assessment.

Theodoric B. Wallace, receiver of the defunct Missouri National bank, yesterday filed in the United States circuit court suits against a number of the stockholders in that institution who have failed to come to time with their 100 per cent assessment levied by the comptroller. One of the cases was against N. R. Ferguson, secretary of the Telephone company, and one was against George D. Huling, of the New York Life building. Service in each of these cases was secured last evening, Papers were ready for filing against some of the other stockholders, but some of them yesterday came to time and paid the assessment rather than contend with the government concerning the liability.

It is understood that during the week there will be numerous suits instituted against the delinquent holders of the stock and that Receiver Wallace will do all he can do under the law to realize under the double liability clause.

The filing of the suits shows that the government is quite willing to test in the courts the question of the liability of the holders of the stock of record the day of the failure, no matter what sort of fraud may have been practiced in making the sale. The stockholders who are contending they are not liable have quite as much faith in their view of the law, and have retained eminent attorneys to present their side of the case when the trial comes off.

The suits filed yesterday will come up for trial in the November term of court.

STARTLING INTERRUPTION.

Criminal Court Room Given an Electrie Shock by a Man Who Had No End of Troubles of His Own.

The criminal court was packed almost to suffocation yesterday afternoon when suddenly a plercing voice shouted in the rear of the room:

"Major Woodson!" Everyone involuntarily started up at the an accident, possibly an assault. One phy- startling interruption. Mr. Cole paused with both of his hands uplifted and turned with both of his hands uplifted and turned toward the door. The bailiffs sprang to their feet and Judge Wofford pounded his desk with his fist and shouted:

"Bring that man up here. I am going to send someone to jail."

Deputy marshals plunged into the mass of people that blocked the aisle. They wrisgled and struggled almost to the big double doors and then they started toward the judge's desk, dragging a cowering man with a bald head and a stubby gray beard along with them.

The offender was taken before the judge, who asked:

"What do you mean, sir, by interrupting the court in this outlandish manner?"
The man started to reply, but Major Woodson hurried to the judge's desk and held a whispered conference with the

the offender taken from the room, but heid a whispered conference with the judge. At its conclusion the judge ordered the effender taken from the room, but said he need not be locked up. In a few minutes the court was grinding away and Attorney Cole, who, by the way, had lowered his arms, resumed his peroration.

The cause of all the flurry was Pleasant Lawson, of Peculiar, Mo., who was arrested last week for stabbing "Jud" Bliddle in a row in Cottingham's barn. Lawson's case was set for yesterday forenoon in Justice Walls' court, and as Major Woodson was his attorney he wanted to confer with him before the case was called. He tried to push his way through the crowd at the criminal court, but could not, and finally, in sheer desperation, resorted to the next best expedient to attract his attorney's attention.

In the meantime, Lawson's case had been called in the justice court, his bond was declared forfeited, and deputy constables were searching the town for him. He was finally located, the matter was explained to the justice, a new bond was filed and Lawson's case was set down for hearing some time next week.

Hicks-Beach, and the United States mone-tary commission.

It is believed that the British govern-ment has reached the decision not to enter-into an international monary conference. Further meetings with the american com-missioners will be held simply because they were previously arranged.

In regard to India, it may be regarded as certain that the mints will not be re-opened at present, or until the Indian authorities are fully prepared and, though the decision rests with Downing street, it is certain that the views of Simla will prevail, and it is known that the Indian authorities op-pose the step.

ED BY DRUNKEN TOUGHS.

London, Oct. 16 .- (Copyrighted.) The English newspapers, which are fond of preaching unctuous sermons on the subject of the "lawlessness of Americans." have food for reflection in two events in London and its suburbs this week. The Honor Oak Golf Club possessed One-tree hill for three years. Finding that the property was being wantonly destroyed or stolen, the club caused the ground to be fenced in, thus shutting out the general public, to the great delight of the neighboring residents, whose life had been made hideous because of the congregating glous susceptibilities. Thereupon King there of drunken, dog fighting roughs from the slums of Deptford. They destroyed the golf links and, reinforced by over 2,000 other rioters, the mob advanced upon the clubhouse, driving the golfers within. Bricks and logs flew until the clubhouse was wrecked. Attempt to Fire the Clubhouse. When the rioters were unable to dislodge the determined members of the club, some of the mob leaders brought bundles It is announced that the combine between the Russian firms engaged in the naphtha industry, which has expired, will not be from carrying out their purpose only by the timely arrival of police reinforcements, the few policemen previously on the scene having been as badly maltreated as the golf players. One of the latter fell into the hands of a dozen roughs, who pounded him with sticks until the unfortunate ed him with sticks until the unfortunate player was in a serious condition. A renewal of the disturbance is expected tomorrow.

A somewhat similar right of way raid was witnessed at Hillingdon on Tuesday, when the inhabitants of that place opened a road through Lord Hillingdon's game aroad through side alleys, and then mingling with line were voted down, however.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 18.—Seven new yellow fewer cases were added to the list to-day. There were no deaths.

At Wagar, Ala., to-day, G. Edwards didd of fever; second death there. Six preserves. The right of way through these preserves had been barred for over thirty years and the ground is overgrown with fine timber, which the crowds of villagers felled for a distance of half a mile, also removing the gates, iron fences, etc., which were in their way.

London ruffianism does not end here. The terrors of the streets are so glaring that the vestries of the different parishes have combined in an appeal to the home secretary for additional police protection, pointing out that many of the districts are living practically in a state of terrorism, gangs of ruffians insulting, attacking and robbing the inhabitants, seemingly without any restraint.

Latest War Office Order.

The newspapers are poking a great deal of fun at the latest war office order, prescribing the weight and height of candidates for commissions in the army, who must not be less than 5 feet 5 inches high and 130 pounds in weight at the age of 18, or 5 feet 5 inches high and 130 pounds in weight at the age of 18, or 5 feet 5 inches high and 135 pounds in weight when 21 years old. It pointed out that, under this rule, neither Lord Wellesley nor Lord Roberts could have entered the army, while Napoleon, Nelson, Wellington, Julius Caesar, Alexander the Great and William of Orange would have been barred. The newspapers are bristling with letters from friends of the candidates for commissions, many of whom are understood to be undergoing fattening processes in order to reach the required weight.

Baltimore, Oct. 16.-The Sun to-day pubishes a lengthy editorial reply to Senator Gorman's letter, which, in part, is as follows: "No person of ordinary intelligence can read the letter from Senator Gorman to the Sun, which is published in our advertising columns to-day, without at once perceiving that it is a mere campaign trick, eminently characteristic, in its palpable in-sincerity, of the source from which it pre-ceeds. If Mr. Gorman really wishes to reire from the contest, the way for him to to so is to retire, not simply to prate about is willingness to sacrifice his personal amition for the good of the party under cerain impossible and preposterous condi-tions. It is not necessary for him to come o the Sun to ask permission to do so. If he wanted to step down and out, or had any real intention of doing so, he could have effected that purpose with far smaller expenditure of cash and words. "But that is the very last thing which he and any intention of doing. His sole object is to assume a heroic attitude, in the hope of deluding the public in the belief that he is a great patriot, who is willing to 'sacrifice' himself for his party, if the cruel and perfidious Sun will only let him. What a splendid and noble figure our senior senator presents, as he strikes this framatic attitude and calls frantically upon the Sun to permit him to retire. Unfortunately, the role of disinterested patriotsm is an unfamiliar one to him, and we regret to say that his impersonation is not a convincing one. Nature did not intend him for the part of Brutus. He plays Cassius far better. "But there is something familiar in the tones of the actor, in spite of this tragic the platform, Karl Decker led his charge down the aisle between the musicians to the front of the platform. Then she descended the steps to the cartain which was driven around the square and one manipulated in the interest. and one manipulated in the interest of trusts and monopolies. "It is not necessary to discuss at length Mr. Gorman's defense of his public career. He confesses that he is opposed to civil service reform; that he opposed the Australian ballot law, and that he mutilated the Wilson tariff bill. His quotation from President Cleveland in justification of his attitude on the Wilson bill will not de even the most ignorant or forgetful. Mr. Gorman, quoting Mr. Cleveland in own vindication, suggests the thought of a certain adroit politician of the lower region who is said to quote Scripture on occasions who is said to quote Scripture on occasions when it suits his purpose.

"In conclusion, the Sun will plainly say to Mr. Gorman that, even if he retired from the contest, the difficulty of restoring harmony would still exist, because not only would his machine remain, but because his machine is pledged to a financial policy, and consequently to a senatorial nomines of his own color and character.

"Objectionable as are Mr. Gorman's methods and influence, they are not the only "Objectionable as are Mr. Gorman's methods and influence, they are not the only things to which the reflecting voters of Maryland object. His principles, or want of principles, on the financial question are vital issues, and the people of Maryland know that, no matter how much he might retire, he would permit no man to go to the United States senate who was not his faithful disciple and follower.

"Mr. Gorman's offer to retire has a string, or rather a cable, tied to it. It is a piece of cheap hinf, which will affect no votes, and which only shows Mr. Gorman's realization of the desperation of his fortunes. No, no, Mr. Gorman, the fly will not walk into your parlor. You must run your own campaign."
